An unrecorded Flight, Barr and Barr Worcester plate

An unrecorded Flight, Barr and Barr Worcester deep small plate, brilliantly painted in coloured enamels by Thomas Baxter with a still life of flowers in a stone urn, on a marble ledge, within a broad gilt band, the blue ground border decorated in raised paste gilding with a still leaf and anthemion band, 7 1/4" diameter, circa 1815, impressed and printed London address marks

This plate formed part of a single service, painted by Thomas Baxter, half the plates painted with seashells, and half with flowers. Although 9 1/2" diameter plates from the service have been recorded, no other plates comparable to this example are known
